LETTER TO SHAREHOLDERS

November 15, 2016

Dear Fellow Shareholders,

I am pleased to address you again on behalf of the Seafarer Funds. This report covers the first half of the 2016-17 fiscal year (May 1, 2016 to October 31, 2016).

Launch of the Seafarer Overseas Value Fund

On May 31, 2016, Seafarer launched the Overseas Value Fund, the second fund in the Seafarer Funds series.

Seafarer's original fund, the Overseas Growth and Income Fund, is focused on finding relative value within the emerging markets: the Fund seeks to find securities that present balanced characteristics between prospective capital growth, current income, and present valuation.

The new Value Fund's strategy is dedicated to a more traditional form of value investing, adapted for the particular challenges inherent to the emerging markets. Often, value-oriented strategies implemented in the emerging markets simply look for growth-oriented stocks with low valuations (e.g., perhaps cyclically-depressed growth stocks). By contrast, the Fund places particular emphasis on searching for value embedded in corporate balance sheets: the Fund attempts to mine value that has already been created, but perhaps not recognized or realized by investors.

My colleague, Paul Espinosa, has taken up leadership of the Value Fund; he describes its launch and initial performance in the "performance review" section of this report. I am deeply pleased by the advent of the Fund, as well as Paul's leadership over it. The new Fund embodies an important evolution in Seafarer's investment philosophy. As the Fund's co-manager, I am excited and eager to contribute to its progress over the next decade and beyond.

Reduction in Fees and Economies of Scale

Beyond the launch of the new Fund, I am also pleased to report that Seafarer has lowered its management fee, consistent with its stated objective to reduce operating expenses over time, and with scale.

Effective August 31, 2016, the Funds' Advisor (Seafarer Capital Partners, LLC) lowered its management fee for both funds by 0.05% (from 0.75% to 0.70%) on consolidated net assets in excess of $1.5 billion.<sup>1</sup> Please note that the management fee is one component of each Fund's total operating expenses. This is the second reduction in management fees in the Funds' history; it is the fifth time that Seafarer has acted to reduce expenses by either capping expenses at a lower level or reducing management fees.

As of the date of this report, the Growth and Income Fund had net assets of approximately $1.9 billion. Happily, the Fund's scale has begun to yield additional economies: the Fund's Prospectus (dated August 31, 2016) states that operating expenses are 0.98% for the Institutional class and 1.08% for the Investor class, below the Funds' contractual expense caps (1.05% and 1.15%, respectively).

Presently, the much smaller scale of the Value Fund (approximately $5 million in net assets as of the date of this report) means that its expenses are still subject to the Funds' contractual caps (i.e. 1.05% for the Institutional class and 1.15% for the Investor class).

Expansion of Seafarer's Team

As Seafarer has grown, it has continued to invest in its research capabilities and operational capacities, particularly via additions to the team. I am delighted by the caliber of the people that have joined our organization, and I am excited by the depth and breadth of talent they embody.

October 31, 2016

The firm's new members include: David Lenik, the firm's Chief Compliance Officer; Kevin Lammert, the firm's Chief Financial Officer; Ryan Kelley and Natalia Urbanek, who serve in client service functions; Chris Clayton, the firm's Director of Trading; and Inbok Song, who joins the firm as Director of Research.

I would like to single out Inbok Song, for a moment: it is a privilege to work with her again. Inbok and I worked together in the past; since that time, she held senior portfolio management positions at our former employer and elsewhere. She brings drive, analytical talent, and a wealth of experience, and Seafarer is lucky to have her. Inbok occupies a new role as Director of Research. Her primary remit is to ensure the quality and consistency of our research output, and to oversee the systems and models that drive our research; she will also produce fundamental securities research in support of the firm's investment strategies.

Capacity Management

As long-term shareholders are aware, the Growth and Income Fund has experienced considerable growth in assets under management over the past two years. The Fund passed the third anniversary of its existence in February of 2015, at which time its net assets were slightly below $150 million. As of October 2016, the Fund had approximately $1.9 billion under management.

My goal in managing the Fund is to ensure that it has adequate capacity to serve its existing shareholders' needs, both in the present and in the future. I currently estimate the strategy has a capacity of $4 billion (I reserve the right to revise this estimate in the future). I imagine that if the Fund were to reach this threshold, Seafarer would likely restrict subscriptions from existing clients. Personally, I have no desire to manage a fund subject to such restrictions, so I place great importance on managing capacity in a manner that reduces the possibility of their imposition.

In an effort to manage capacity and moderate the pace of subscription activity, I closed the Fund to most new investors at the end of September 2016 (known as a "soft close").<sup>2</sup> I did so at an asset level that should provide existing clients and shareholders ample capacity to expand their allocations to the Fund, over time, should they choose to do so. I estimate that, even if existing shareholders increase their allocations considerably, the Fund will have sufficient spare capacity such that it should "undershoot" its $4 billion limit. My ultimate goal is to ensure the strategy remains at a manageable size in prevailing market conditions, while still preserving relatively unfettered access to the Fund for existing clients and shareholders.

We appreciate the trust you afford our organization, and we are honored to serve as your investment advisor in the emerging markets.

SEAFARER OVERSEAS GROWTH AND INCOME FUND
PERFORMANCE REVIEW

November 14, 2016

This report addresses the first half of the Seafarer Overseas Growth and Income Fund's 2016-17 fiscal year (May 1, 2016 to October 31, 2016).

During the semi-annual period, the Fund gained 4.99%, while the Fund's benchmark, the MSCI Emerging Markets Total Return Index, rose 9.68%.<sup>1</sup> By way of broader comparison, the S&P 500 Index rose 4.06%.

The Fund began the fiscal year with a net asset value of $11.46 per share. In June, the Fund paid a semi-annual distribution of $0.088 per share. That payment brought the cumulative distribution per share, as measured from the Fund's inception, to $1.260.<sup>2</sup> The Fund finished the semi-annual period with a value of $11.94 per share.<sup>3</sup>

At the outset of the fiscal year, both the Fund and the benchmark index declined. This decline was perhaps a counter-reaction to the sharp rally that occurred between February and April of the same year. Emerging markets had just staged a strong rebound, led by Brazilian equities and the Brazilian currency, prompted by sudden political changes in that country. May saw the emerging markets retreat, ostensibly because investors thought the surge in Brazil's financial markets had run ahead of the underlying economic reality. The Fund and the benchmark fell -3.49% and -3.71%, respectively, during May.

However, between the end of May and the end of October, the benchmark rose sharply once again, this time led by gains in Chinese internet companies and financial service firms. While China contributed the most to the index's increase during the five-month period, most other developing countries also saw their equity markets advance. The gains were such that the benchmark finished the first half of the fiscal year up nearly 10%.

The broad-based gains in the emerging markets were seemingly prompted by three conditions: the reduced likelihood of an interest rate increase in the U.S., relatively stable emerging market currencies, and renewed optimism regarding the health of the Chinese economy. Every constituent sector contributed to the MSCI Emerging Index's increase.

Amid the swift and broad-based rally, the Fund's absolute performance was strong, but it fell short of the benchmark's gains. The Fund gained 4.99% over the six-month span, trailing the index by 4.69%.

There are at least three ways to understand the Fund's shortfall during the semi-annual period.

First, it can be explained in terms of relative positioning: the Fund's underweight allocation in Chinese shares – particularly financial institutions and internet companies – created much of the performance gap. China's financial institutions generally pay substantial dividends; but our assessment of their future risks, combined with generally low levels of capital adequacy among the banks, means that most do not satisfy the requirements of the Fund's strategy. China's internet companies also fall outside the Fund's discipline: though most seem capable of producing the sustained growth that the Fund seeks, their anemic record of dividend payments means they generally do not satisfy the Fund's income and valuation requirements.

Second, the Fund's underperformance can be explained in strategic terms: historically, Seafarer's growth and income strategy has tended to lag the overall market during short-term periods of sharp gains. The Fund's strategy seeks investments in companies that are capable of sustained (typically steady) growth. This characteristic can help the strategy perform well during periods of economic weakness or uncertainty. However, this characteristic can also act as a drag on performance during periods when corporate financial performance might accelerate dramatically, such as a cyclical "bottom" in earnings. At such times, the market tends to rotate its attention to cyclically depressed shares – not the steadier sort the strategy favors. As such, the strategy often fails to capture the full benefit of recovery. I do not offer this explanation as an excuse, but rather as context for what shareholders might expect from the Fund's strategy over time.

Third, and perhaps most importantly, the Fund's performance can be explained in terms of recent macro-economic history. Over the past five years, investors' expectation for earnings growth from the developing world has been grossly mis-aligned with reality. Between 2011 and 2015, there was an immense "gap" between consensus expectations for growth in corporate profits and the actual results. Every year, analysts predicted growth between 10% and 13%, and the actual results fell far short – nearly zero growth, measured as a compounded average, over the past five years.

Five years ago, emerging market equities were generally valued richly, based on expectations for substantial growth. When that growth failed to materialize, most stock prices performed poorly. Conversely, the Fund's holdings, which favor companies capable of sustained growth, performed somewhat better than the markets overall.

The situation appears to have changed in 2016. First, valuations were not as rich as the past. Second, forecasts became more reasonable: at the outset of the year, the consensus expectation for growth was finally realistic, at 8%. Third, the actual result for 2016, at least as it is known so far based on published mid-year corporate performance, is much more in line with the forecast. Using the benchmark index as a proxy for the markets as a whole, the emerging markets appear on track to produce 6% growth in profits during the calendar year. The gap between expectation and reality persists, but it has narrowed considerably. For the first time in five years, corporate profit growth appears nearly on track to meet expectation – and markets have rallied, seemingly in recognition of this fundamental fact.

There is no guarantee that "gap" will continue to narrow. I think that investors are speculating that corporate earnings have turned a corner in the developing world. I harbor doubts whether this is true: when I review the financial statements of individual companies, I see improved conditions, but not so much so that I believe a recovery is underway. Still, if this trend continues, it might in hindsight be considered the "bottom" in earnings – and the market is behaving as if it were so.

In summary: a modest recovery in earnings growth may be underway, though I have my doubts. However, as discussed above, the Fund's strategy tends not to participate fully in such events. Shareholders should take note: if growth continues to recover and accelerate from here, the Fund might lag the market, especially if the market moves sharply and swiftly higher.

Performance of a $10,000 Investment Since Inception

* Inception Date: February 15, 2012.

The chart shown above represents historical performance of a hypothetical investment of $10,000 in the Fund's Investor Class shares for the period from inception to October 31, 2016. All returns reflect reinvested dividends and/or distributions, but do not reflect the deduction of taxes that an investor would pay on distributions or redemptions.

The Fund also offers Institutional Class shares, performance for which is not reflected in the chart above. The performance of Institutional Class shares may be higher or lower than the performance of the Investor Class shares shown above based upon differences in fees paid by shareholders investing in the Investor Class shares and Institutional Class shares.

Investment Objective

The Fund seeks to provide long-term capital appreciation along with some current income. The Fund seeks to mitigate adverse volatility in returns as a secondary objective.

Strategy

The Fund invests primarily in the securities of companies located in developing countries. The Fund invests in several asset classes including dividend-paying common stocks, preferred stocks, convertible bonds, and fixed-income securities.

The Fund seeks to offer investors a relatively stable means of participating in a portion of developing countries' growth prospects, while providing some downside protection compared to a portfolio that invests only in the common stocks of those countries.

SEAFARER OVERSEAS VALUE FUND
PERFORMANCE REVIEW

November 9, 2016

This report addresses the first half of the Seafarer Overseas Value Fund's 2016-17 fiscal year (May 1, 2016 to October 31, 2016).

The Fund launched one month into the fiscal year, on May 31, 2016, with $2.8 million in assets under management, and ended the semi-annual period with $4.5 million.

During the semi-annual period (as measured from inception date May 31, 2016), the Fund gained 2.70%.<sup>1</sup> The Fund's benchmark, the MSCI Emerging Markets Total Return Index, rose 13.90% during the same period. By way of broader comparison, the S&P 500 Index gained 2.22% during the same period.

The Fund launched with a net asset value of $10.00 per share. The Fund paid no distributions during the first half of the fiscal year, and it finished the period with a value of $10.27 per share.<sup>2</sup>

I purposefully deployed the Fund's cash on a gradual basis throughout the period, preferring an average price of entry for each holding over the arbitrariness of prices on launch date. The difficulty with this approach was lowering the average cost of entry for each position in a period when the emerging markets as a whole were appreciating considerably. That said, there was sufficient price volatility for individual securities within the period that I believe the portfolio was well served by this approach.

The primary difficulty of launching the Fund during a period of significant market appreciation was effectively implementing the portfolio I had intended to construct pre-launch. In fact, I did exclude several securities from the actual portfolio due to meaningful price appreciation prior to and during the launch period. By way of example, a potential holding located in Latin America more than doubled in price between the beginning of the year and the Fund's launch, while another one in the same region appreciated by 66%. While not an ideal circumstance, I viewed this complication as a test and opportunity to practice what I preach as a value investor. The key tenet of the Seafarer Overseas Value Fund is to maintain discipline with regard to the prices paid for securities.

On the other hand, there are a number of potential holdings on our watch list that now meet our criteria for inclusion into the portfolio, to be funded by its additional liquid resources.

The Fund appreciated 2.70% during the semi-annual period (as measured from inception date May 31, 2016). While the Fund does not seek to track a benchmark, it is worth noting that performance during the period was distinctly more stable than that of the MSCI Emerging Markets Total Return Index. In other words, the Fund tended to underperform on days of strong index appreciation, and tended to outperform during negative performance days for the index. While not an a priori objective of the Fund, this behavior makes sense in hindsight, as the benchmark's performance was heavily driven by the technology and financial sectors, which together accounted for 78% of the index appreciation, and to which the Fund has little exposure. As a result, I can identify two characteristics that drove the Fund's idiosyncratic performance relative to the index during this particular period. First, the Fund tends to shy away from momentum stocks, favoring instead companies going through their own individual earnings cycles, with time horizons measured in years, as opposed to semi-annual periods. Second, the Fund's sectoral exposure is a function of stock selection and nothing more. Indeed, the Fund's active share score was 92% as of September 30, 2016.<sup>3</sup>

I cannot speculate with regard to how the Fund will perform relative to any emerging markets index in future periods, as there are too many variables to consider. However, given the nature of the Fund, I would expect it to maintain a relatively high active share score.

I view the Fund's holdings within the framework of the sources of value defined in our white paper, On Value in Emerging Markets.<sup>4</sup> From this perspective, the first half of the fiscal year saw strong appreciation of several holdings within the Asset Productivity category, where the source of value is a cyclical downturn following a period of asset expansion. The common denominator of these securities is that they operate in industries that have been in recession for several years now. Whether these share price gains prove sustainable remains to be seen, but at least the market has given some indication that these particular stocks may have been over-discounted in what was already known to be a difficult trading environment.

At a security level, it is worth noting that three Fund holdings announced meaningful profit warnings during the period. Yet, the resulting pullback in two of the three holdings was relatively muted and short-lived. I interpret this stock performance in the face of negative earnings surprises as validation that valuations are already supportive of our original entry points.

Specifically, Shangri-La Asia, an owner-operator of luxury hotels and mixed-use properties throughout Asia, reported a meaningful asset impairment charge related to weak performance at some of its Mainland China properties. Wilmar International, a vertically-integrated agribusiness company, pre-announced a second quarter earnings loss primarily due to untimely purchases of soya. These stocks are currently trading close to or at a higher price than they did prior to releasing their negative earnings surprises, suggesting valuation support for the share price in the face of earnings losses. The third holding to report a negative earnings surprise was AMVIG Holdings. First half earnings for this manufacturer of tobacco packaging declined 47% due to clients drawing down their existing packaging inventory in anticipation of changes to the rules governing the advertisement of health risks. Given the high dividend payout ratio, the company lowered the dividend in-line with earnings. The stock is down approximately 9% since the earnings announcement. Among the reasons I continue to hold this stock is the idea that I expect packaging volume to fully recover for this inelastic product, and pegging the corresponding future dividend to the current share price results in an expected dividend yield of close to 9%.<sup>5</sup>

The Seafarer Overseas Value Fund remains focused on finding what it deems to be undervalued securities. The first half of the Fund's fiscal year witnessed two momentous events: the United Kingdom's June 23 decision to leave the European Union and the inclusion by the International Monetary Fund (IMF) of the Chinese renminbi in the Special Drawing Rights (SDR) currency basket effective October 1, 2016.<sup>6,7,8</sup> I am optimistic that the process of adjustment the world economy is likely undergoing will yield more opportunities for the Value Fund. For now I plan to maintain a healthy level of liquidity to both invest in new opportunities and partially guard against potential market drawdowns resulting from currency rearrangements.

Performance of a $10,000 Investment Since Inception

* Inception Date: May 31, 2016.

The chart shown above represents historical performance of a hypothetical investment of $10,000 in the Fund's Investor Class shares for the period from inception to October 31, 2016. All returns reflect reinvested dividends and/or distributions, but do not reflect the deduction of taxes that an investor would pay on distributions or redemptions.

The Fund also offers Institutional Class shares, performance for which is not reflected in the chart above. The performance of Institutional Class shares may be higher or lower than the performance of the Investor Class shares shown above based upon differences in fees paid by shareholders investing in the Investor Class shares and Institutional Class shares.

Investment Objective

The Fund seeks to provide long-term capital appreciation.

Strategy

The Fund invests primarily in the securities of companies located in developing countries. The Fund invests in several asset classes including common stocks, preferred stocks, and fixed-income securities.

The Fund's portfolio is comprised of securities identified through a bottom-up security selection process based on fundamental research. The Fund seeks to produce a minimum long-term rate of return by investing in securities priced at a discount to their intrinsic value.

DISCLOSURE OF FUND EXPENSES

As a shareholder of a Fund you will incur two types of costs: (1) transaction costs, including applicable redemption fees; and (2) ongoing costs, including management fees and other Fund expenses. The following examples are intended to help you understand your ongoing costs (in dollars) of investing in a Fund and to compare these costs with the ongoing costs of investing in other mutual funds. The examples are based on an investment of $1,000 invested on May 1, 2016 and held until October 31, 2016.

Actual Expenses. For each Fund and share class, the first line of the following table provides information about actual account values and actual expenses. You may use the information in this line, together with the amount you invested, to estimate the expenses that you paid over the period. Simply divide your account value by $1,000 (for example, an $8,600 account value divided by $1,000 = 8.6), then multiply the result by the number in the first line under the heading "Expenses Paid During Period" to estimate the expenses you paid on your account during this period.

Hypothetical Example for Comparison Purposes. For each Fund and share class, the second line of the following table provides information about hypothetical account values and hypothetical expenses based on the Fund's actual expense ratio and an assumed rate of return of 5% per year before expenses, which is not the Fund's actual return. The hypothetical account values and expenses may not be used to estimate the actual ending account balance or expenses you paid for the period. You may use this information to compare the ongoing costs of investing in the Fund and other mutual funds. To do so, compare this 5% hypothetical example with the 5% hypothetical examples that appear in the shareholder reports of the other mutual funds.

Please note the expenses shown in the following table are meant to highlight your ongoing costs only and do not reflect transactional costs, such as redemption fees or exchange fees. Therefore, for each Fund and share class, the second line of the following table is useful in comparing ongoing costs only, and will not help you determine the relative total costs of owning different funds. In addition, if these transactional costs were included, your costs would have been higher.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

I. Organization

Financial Investors Trust (the "Trust"), a Delaware statutory trust, is an open-end management investment company registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended ("1940 Act"). The Trust consists of multiple separate portfolios or series. This semi-annual report describes the Seafarer Overseas Growth and Income Fund and the Seafarer Overseas Value Fund (individually a "Fund" and collectively, the "Funds"). The Seafarer Overseas Growth and Income Fund seeks to provide long-term capital appreciation along with some current income; it also seeks to mitigate adverse volatility in returns as a secondary objective. The Seafarer Overseas Value Fund seeks to provide long-term capital appreciation. The Funds offers Investor Class and Institutional Class shares.

2. Significant Accounting Policies

The accompanying financial statements were prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America ("U.S. GAAP"). The preparation of financial statements in conformity with U.S. GAAP requires management to make certain estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosures of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenue and expenses during the period. Actual results could differ from those estimates. The Funds are considered an investment company for financial reporting purposes under U.S. GAAP. The following is a summary of significant accounting policies consistently followed by the Funds in preparation of its financial statements.

Investment Valuation

Each Fund generally values its securities based on market prices determined at the close of regular trading on the New York Stock Exchange ("NYSE"), normally 4:00 p.m. Eastern Time, on each day the NYSE is open for trading.

For equity securities and mutual funds that are traded on an exchange, the market price is usually the closing sale or official closing price on that exchange. In the case of equity securities not traded on an exchange, or if such closing prices are not otherwise available, the securities are valued at the mean of the most recent bid and ask prices on such day. Redeemable securities issued by open-end registered investment companies are valued at the investment company's applicable net asset value, with the exception of exchange-traded open-end investment companies, which are priced as equity securities.

Equity securities that are primarily traded on foreign securities exchanges are valued at the closing values of such securities on their respective foreign exchanges, except when an event occurs subsequent to the close of the foreign exchange but before the close of the NYSE, such that the securities' value would likely change. In such an event, the fair values of those securities are determined in good faith through consideration of other factors in accordance with procedures established by and under the general supervision of the Board of Trustees (the "Board"). Each Fund uses a fair valuation model provided by an independent pricing service, which is intended to reflect fair value when a security's value or a meaningful portion of the Fund's portfolio is believed to have been materially affected by a valuation event that has occurred between the close of the exchange or market on which the security is traded and the close of the regular trading day on the NYSE. The Funds' valuation procedures set forth certain triggers that inform each Fund when to use the fair valuation model.

The market price for debt obligations is generally the price supplied by an independent third-party pricing service approved by the Board, which may use a matrix, formula or other objective method that takes into consideration quotations from dealers, market transactions in comparable investments, market indices and yield curves. If vendors are unable to supply a price, or if the price supplied is deemed to be unreliable, the market price may be determined using quotations received from one or more broker-dealers that make a market in the security. Corporate bonds and convertible bonds are valued using market models that consider trade data, quotations from dealers and active market makers, relevant yield curve and spread data, creditworthiness, trade data or market information on comparable securities, and other relevant security specific information. Publicly traded foreign government debt securities and foreign corporate bonds are typically traded internationally in the over-the-counter market and are valued at the mean between the bid and asked prices as of the close of business of that market.

Forward currency exchange contracts have a market value determined by the prevailing foreign currency exchange daily rates and current foreign currency exchange forward rates. The foreign currency exchange forward rates are calculated using an automated system that estimates rates on the basis of the current day foreign currency exchange rates and forward foreign currency exchange rates supplied by a pricing service.

When such prices or quotations are not available, or when Seafarer Capital Partners, LLC (the "Adviser") believes that they are unreliable, securities may be priced using fair value procedures approved by the Board.

Certain foreign countries impose a tax on capital gains which is accrued by each Fund based on unrealized appreciation, if any, on affected securities. The tax is paid when the gain is realized.

Fair Value Measurements

Each Fund discloses the classification of its fair value measurements following a three-tier hierarchy based on the inputs used to measure fair value. Inputs refer broadly to the assumptions that market participants would use in pricing the asset or liability, including assumptions about risk. Inputs may be observable or unobservable. Observable inputs reflect the assumptions market participants would use in pricing the asset or liability. Such inputs are developed based on market data obtained from sources independent of the reporting entity. Unobservable inputs reflect the reporting entity's own assumptions about the assumptions market participants would use in pricing the asset or liability, which are developed based on the information available and the reporting entity's best efforts to interpret such information.

Various inputs are used in determining the value of the Funds' investments as of the end of the reporting period. When inputs used fall into different levels of the fair value hierarchy, the level in the hierarchy within which the fair value measurement falls is determined based on the lowest level input that is significant to the fair value measurement in its entirety. The designated input levels are not necessarily an indication of the risk or liquidity associated with these investments. These inputs are categorized in the following hierarchy under applicable financial accounting standards:

- Level 1 – Unadjusted quoted prices in active markets for identical investments, unrestricted assets or liabilities that the Funds have the ability to access at the measurement date;
- Level 2 – Quoted prices which are not active, quoted prices for similar assets or liabilities in active markets or inputs other than quoted prices that are observable (either directly or indirectly) for substantially the full term of the asset or liability; and
- Level 3 – Significant unobservable prices or inputs (including the Funds' own assumptions in determining the fair value of investments) where there is little or no market activity for the asset or liability at the measurement date.

October 31, 2016 (Unaudited)

The following is a summary of the inputs used to value each Fund as of October 31, 2016:

Investments in Securities at Value <sup>(a)</sup>	Level 1 - Quoted Prices	Level 2 - Other Significant Observable Inputs	Level 3 - Significant Unobservable Inputs	Total
Seafarer Overseas Growth and Income Fund

Investments in Securities at Value <sup>(a)</sup>	Level 1 - Quoted Prices	Level 2 - Other Significant Observable Inputs	Level 3 - Significant Unobservable Inputs	Total
Seafarer Overseas Value Fund
Common Stocks	$ 4,066,640	$ -	$ -	$ 4,066,640
Total	$ 4,066,640	$ -	$ -	$ 4,066,640

The Funds recognize transfers between levels as of the end of the period. For the six months or period ended October 31, 2016, the Funds did not have any securities that used significant unobservable inputs (Level 3) in determining fair value.

Each Fund utilizes a fair value evaluation service with respect to international securities with an earlier market closing than the Fund's net asset value computation cutoff. When events trigger the use of the fair value evaluation service on a reporting period date, it results in certain securities transferring from a Level 1 to a Level 2 classification. The transfer amounts disclosed in the preceding table represent the value of the securities as of October 31, 2016 transferred in/(out) of Level 1 and Level 2 during the reporting period that were also held at April 30, 2016.

Investment Transactions and Investment Income

Investment transactions are accounted for on the date the investments are purchased or sold (trade date). Realized gains and losses from investment transactions are reported on an identified cost basis. Interest income, which includes accretion of discounts and amortization of premiums, is accrued and recorded as earned. Dividend income is recognized on the ex-dividend date or for certain foreign securities, as soon as information is available to the Funds. All of the realized and unrealized gains and losses and net investment income are allocated daily to each class in proportion to its average daily net assets.

Cash Management Transactions

Each of the Funds subscribes to the Brown Brothers Harriman & Co. ("BBH") Cash Management Service ("CMS"), whereby cash balances are automatically swept into overnight offshore demand deposits with either the BBH Grand Cayman branch or a branch of a pre-approved commercial bank. This fully automated program allows the Funds to earn interest on cash balances. Excess cash with deposit institutions domiciled outside of the U.S. are subject to sovereign actions in the jurisdiction of the deposit institution including, but not limited to, freeze, seizure or diminution. Cash balances in the BBH CMS are included on the Statement of Assets and Liabilities under Cash and Foreign Currency, at value. As of October 31, 2016, the Funds had the following cash balances participating in the BBH CMS:

Fund

Seafarer Overseas Growth and Income Fund	$ 159,709,755
Seafarer Overseas Value Fund	402,679

As of October 31, 2016, the Funds had the following foreign cash balances participating in the BBH CMS (cost and value of foreign cash balances are equal):

Fund

Seafarer Overseas Growth and Income Fund	$ 0
Seafarer Overseas Value Fund	29,325

Foreign Securities

The Funds may directly purchase securities of foreign issuers. Investing in securities of foreign issuers involves special risks not typically associated with investing in securities of U.S. issuers. The risks include possible revaluation of currencies, the inability to repatriate foreign currency, less complete financial information about companies, and possible future adverse political and economic developments. Moreover, securities of many foreign issuers and their markets may be less liquid and their prices more volatile than those of securities of comparable U.S. issuers.

Foreign Currency Translation

The books and records of the Funds are maintained in U.S. dollars. Investment valuations and other assets and liabilities initially expressed in foreign currencies are converted each business day into U.S. dollars based upon current exchange rates. Prevailing foreign exchange rates may generally be obtained at the close of the NYSE (normally, 4:00 p.m. Eastern time). The portion of realized and unrealized gains or losses on investments due to fluctuations in foreign currency exchange rates is not separately disclosed and is included in realized and unrealized gains or losses on investments, when applicable.

Foreign Currency Spot Contracts

Each Fund may enter into foreign currency spot contracts to facilitate transactions in foreign securities or to convert foreign currency receipts into U.S. dollars. A foreign currency spot contract is an agreement between two parties to buy and sell currencies at the current market rate, for settlement generally within two business days. The U.S. dollar value of the contracts is determined using current currency exchange rates supplied by a pricing service. The contract is marked-to-market daily for settlements beyond one day and any change in market value is recorded as an unrealized gain or loss. When the contract is closed, the Fund records a realized gain or loss equal to the difference between the value on the open and close date. Losses may arise from changes in the value of the foreign currency, or if the counterparties do not perform under the contract's terms. The maximum potential loss from such contracts is the aggregate face value in U.S. dollars at the time the contract was opened.

Trust Expenses

Some expenses of the Trust can be directly attributed to the Funds. Expenses which cannot be directly attributed to the Funds are apportioned among all funds in the Trust based on the average daily net assets of each fund.

Fund and Class Expenses

Expenses that are specific to a Fund or class of shares of a Fund, including shareholder servicing fees, are charged directly to that Fund or share class. Expenses that are common to all Funds are generally allocated among the Funds in proportion to their average daily net assets.

Federal Income Taxes

Each Fund complies with the requirements under Subchapter M of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, applicable to regulated investment companies and intends to distribute substantially all of its net taxable income and net capital gains, if any, each year so that it will not be subject to excise tax on undistributed income and gains. The Funds are not subject to income taxes to the extent such distributions are made.

Tax returns for open years have incorporated no uncertain tax positions that require a provision for income taxes.

Distributions to Shareholders

In general, the Seafarer Overseas Growth and Income Fund's policy is to distribute to its shareholders substantially all net investment income, paid out via two semi-annual dividends, in June and December. The Seafarer Overseas Value Fund's policy is to distribute to its shareholders substantially all net investment income via one annual dividend in December. It is also each Fund's policy to distribute annually all net realized short-term and long-term capital gains, if any, after offsetting any capital loss carryovers. Income dividend distributions are derived from dividends and other income each Fund receives from its investments, including short term capital gains. Long term capital gain distributions are derived from gains realized when a Fund sells a security it has owned for more than one year. Each Fund may make additional distributions and at other times if the Adviser believes doing so may be necessary for the Fund to avoid or reduce taxes.

DISCLOSURE REGARDING APPROVAL OF FUND ADVISORY AGREEMENT

On December 15, 2015, the Trustees met in person to discuss, among other things, the approval of the investment advisory agreement between the Trust and Seafarer Capital Partners, LLC (the "Adviser," "Seafarer") (the "Investment Advisory Agreement"), in accordance with Section 15(c) of the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended. The Independent Trustees met with independent legal counsel during executive session and discussed the Investment Advisory Agreement and other related materials. In approving the Investment Advisory Agreement with the Adviser, the Trustees, including the Independent Trustees, considered the following factors with respect to the Seafarer Overseas Value Fund (the "Value Fund"):

Investment Advisory Fee Rate

The Trustees reviewed and considered the contractual annual advisory fee paid by the Trust, on behalf of the Value Fund, to Seafarer of 0.75% of the Value Fund's average daily net assets, in light of the extent and quality of the advisory services provided by Seafarer to the Value Fund.

The Board received and considered information including a comparison of the Value Fund's contractual and actual management fees and overall expenses with those of funds in the expense group and universes of funds selected by an independent provider of investment company data (the "Data Provider"). The Trustees noted that the contractual management fee rate for the Value Fund was below the average and median contractual management fee rates of the Data Provider expense group.

Total Expense Ratios

Based on such information, the Trustees further reviewed and considered the total expense ratio (after waivers) of 1.05% for the Institutional Class of Value Fund. The Trustees noted that the Value Fund's total expense ratio (after waivers) was below the average and median total expense ratios of the Data Provider expense group.

Nature, Extent and Quality of the Services under the Investment Advisory Agreement

The Trustees received and considered information regarding the nature, extent and quality of services to be provided to the Value Fund under the Investment Advisory Agreement. The Trustees reviewed certain background materials supplied by Seafarer in its presentation, including its Form ADV.

The Trustees reviewed and considered Seafarer's investment advisory personnel, its history as an asset manager and its performance and the amount of assets currently under management by Seafarer and its affiliated entities. The Trustees also reviewed the research and decision-making processes utilized by Seafarer, including the methods adopted to seek to achieve compliance with the investment objectives, policies and restrictions of the Value Fund.

The Trustees considered the background and experience of Seafarer's management in connection with the Value Fund, including reviewing the qualifications, backgrounds and responsibilities of the management team primarily responsible for the day-to-day portfolio management of the Value Fund and the extent of the resources devoted to research and analysis of actual and potential investments.

The Trustees also reviewed, among other things, Seafarer's insider trading policies and procedures and its Code of Ethics.

Performance

The Trustees noted that since the Value Fund has not yet begun operations, there is no performance of the Value Fund to be reviewed or analyzed at this time. The Trustees further considered Seafarer's reputation generally and its investment techniques, risk management controls and decision-making processes.

Comparable Accounts

The Trustees noted certain information provided by Seafarer regarding fees charged to other Seafarer clients and considered Seafarer's statements indicating that there were no clients with investment mandates directly comparable to that of the Value Fund.

Profitability

The Trustees received and considered a projected profitability analysis through September 30, 2016 prepared by Seafarer based on the fees to be payable under the Investment Advisory Agreement with respect to the Value Fund. The Trustees considered the profits, if any, anticipated to be realized by Seafarer in connection with the operation of the Value Fund. The Board then reviewed Seafarer's unaudited financial statements, including profit and loss statements for the fiscal year 2014 and the period of October 1, 2014 to September 30, 2015 and balance sheets as of December 31, 2014 and September 30, 2015 in order to analyze the financial condition and stability and profitability of Seafarer.

Economies of Scale

The Trustees considered whether economies of scale in the provision of services to the Value Fund will be passed along to the shareholders under the proposed agreements.

Other Benefits to the Adviser

The Trustees reviewed and considered any other incidental benefits to be derived by Seafarer from its relationship with the Value Fund, including whether soft dollar arrangements were used.

In approving Seafarer as the Value Fund's investment adviser and approving the Investment Advisory Agreement and the fees charged under the Investment Advisory Agreement, the Trustees concluded that no single factor reviewed by the Trustees was identified by the Trustees to be determinative as the principal factor in whether to approve the Investment Advisory Agreement. Further, the Independent Trustees were advised by separate independent legal counsel throughout the process. The Trustees, including all of the Independent Trustees, concluded that:

- the contractual management fee rate was below the average and median expense group contractual management fee rate for the Value Fund;
- the terms of the proposed fee waiver/expense reimbursement letter agreement between the Trust, on behalf of the Value Fund, and Seafarer, were reasonable;
- the total expense ratio (after waivers) was below the average and median expense group total expense ratios (after waivers) for the Value Fund;
- the nature, extent and quality of services to be rendered by Seafarer under the Investment Advisory Agreement with respect to the Value Fund were adequate;
- since the Value Fund has not yet begun operations, there is no performance of the Value Fund to be reviewed or analyzed at this time;
- bearing in mind the limitations of comparing different types of managed accounts and the different levels of service typically associated with such accounts, the fee structures applicable to Seafarer's other clients were not indicative of any unreasonableness with respect to the advisory fees proposed to be payable by the Value Fund;
- the profit, if any, to be realized by Seafarer in connection with the operation of the Value Fund is not unreasonable to the Value Fund; and
- there were no material economies of scale or other incidental benefits accruing to Seafarer in connection with its relationship with the Value Fund.

During the review process, the Trustees noted certain instances where clarification or follow-up was appropriate and others where the Trustees determined that further clarification or follow-up was not necessary. In those instances where clarification or follow-up was requested, the Board determined that in each case either information responsive to its requests had been provided, or where any request was outstanding in whole or in part, given the totality of the information provided with respect to the Investment Advisory Agreement, the Board had received sufficient information to renew and approve the Investment Advisory Agreement.

Based on the Trustees' deliberations and their evaluation of the information described above, the Trustees, including all of the Independent Trustees, concluded that Seafarer's compensation for investment advisory services is consistent with the best interests of the Value Fund and its shareholders.
